

Disclaimer

This experimental system may take automatic photographs of you or your devices. It may record the MAC address of any devices you are carrying. It may print obfuscated fragments of these MAC addresses.

The BBC is the operator of this experimental prototype and does not store or use information collected as part of this exhibition, which is designed to highlight questions about user tracking and data harvesting. We do not share this data with any 3rd party.